

DiTella and Schargrodsky, American Economic Review (2004)

“Do Police Reduce Crime? Estimates Using the Allocation of Police Forces After a Terrorist Attack”

The original replication file march2004_ditella_data.zip is taken from the AER website.

https://www.aeaweb.org/aer/data/march2004_ditella_data.zip

DS2004 is a slightly reorganized posted data set.

There are 7884 observations

The sample contains data monthly from April 1994 through December 1994.

The July data only contains

Name

block

barrio

calle

altura

sameblock

distance

public

gasstation

bank

thefts

months

oneblock

Label

Block ID

Neighborhood

Street

Street numbering

Jewish institution on block

Number of blocks to closest Jewish institution

Public building on block

Gas station on block

Bank on block

Total car thefts on block during month

Month (numeric)

Jewish institution one block distant

WeChat: cstutorcs

Assignment Project Exam Help

Email: tutorcs@163.com

QQ: 749389476

<https://tutorcs.com>